West Virginia Action Aftermath of Divorce Fight.

As an aftermath of divorce proceedings, suit for $50,000 damages for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections has been filed in the Marion county, W. Va., county court at Fairmont by Lewis M. Capehart, of East Liverpool, against William F. Schneibley, former Pittsburgh automobile accessory salesman, now operating a store at Fairmont, it developed today.

The petition charges the defendant "poisoned the mind" of Mrs. Romaine E. Capehart against her husband and that as a result, she became in love with the defendant. Schneibley is also charged with "having arranged meetings" with Mrs. Capehart at Salem, O., Beaver Falls, Pa., Steubenville, O., and Pittsburgh.

Because of Schneibley's alleged actions Mrs. Capehart, the petition says, became "cold and indifferent, neglected her home" and finally, on October 1, 1928, she and her husband separated. Schneibley is charged with having "purposely and maliciously broken up the plaintiff's family," depriving Capehart of the "comfort, fellowship, society and services of his wife."

Mrs. Capehart instituted a suit for divorce against her husband in common pleas court, at Lisbon on October 16, 1928, charging gross neglect of duty, cruelty and drunkenness. Capehart filed a cross petition on December 13, naming Schneibley as co-respondent. The divorce action is still pending.

President Also Asks Tariff Revision In Message to Congress

Suspension of National Origins Clause, Reapportionment and Legislation for Decennial Census of 1930 are Among Five Recommendations in First Appeal From White House.

GOVERNMENT HAS SPECIAL MANDATE FROM LAST ELECTION, HE DECLARES

Galleries are Crowded to Hear His Proposals, Although Chieftain Does Not Deliver Document in Person, as Did Wilson, Harding and, Quite Frequently, Coolidge.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Hoover made five recommendations to congress today in his first presidential message.

In an unusually short executive message, he proposed to the special session:

1.—The enactment of a general farm relief measure, the basis of which would be a federal farm board with wide credit powers, and authorized to reorganize the agricultural marketing system on "more stable and economic lines."

2.—Limited revision of the tariff in certain schedules, with increased powers for the tariff commission.

3.—Suspension of the national origins clause of the 1924 immigration act, which becomes operative on July 1 unless congress acts meanwhile.

4.—Reapportionment of congress, which all congresses since 1920 have been evading, in defiance of the constitution.

5.—Legislation providing for the decennial census of 1930. Other matters, indicated, can go over until the regular session in December, but on the first two—farm relief and tariff—he expressed the opinion that "the government has a special mandate from the last election."

Mr. Hoover did not deliver his message in person, as did Wilson, Harding and, quite frequently, Coolidge. His dislike for public speaking prompted him to send his message to be read in both houses by reading clerks. The physical absence of the president detracted somewhat from the usual color and glamour of "message day" at the capitol. But the galleries were crowded none the less to hear what the new president had to propose.

He briefly stated the purpose of the special session in his opening sentence. "I have called this special session of congress," he said, "to redeem two pledges given in the last election—farm relief and limited changes in the tariff."

Agricultural depression, he said, arose from a variety of causes "and the general result has been that our agricultural industry has not kept pace in prosperity or standards of living with other lines of industry."

"Because of the multitude of causes and because agriculture is not one industry, but a score of industries, we are confronted not with a single problem alone but a greater number of problems. There is no single plan or principle that can be generally applied."

Tariff Adjustment Advocated. Some of these problems can be mitigated, he continued, by improving waterway transportation, by tariff adjustment, improvement in marketing and in other ways.

"I have long held," he said, "that the multiplicity of causes of agricultural depression could only be met by creation of a great instrumental body clothed with sufficient authority and resources to meet these problems, each upon its own merits. The creation of such an agency would at once transfer the agricultural question from the field of politics to the realm of economics and would result in constructive action."

The pledged purpose of such a federal farm board is the reorganization of the marketing system on sounder and more stable and more economic lines. To do this the board will require funds to assist in creating and sustaining farmer-owned and farmer-controlled agencies for a variety of purposes, such as the acquisition of adequate warehousing and other facilities for marketing; adequate working capital to be advanced against commodities lodged for storage; necessary and prudent advances to corporations created and owned by farmers organizations and for the elimination of many wastes in distribution.

The report of Receiver M. K. Zimmerman has been confirmed by the court in the case of H. V. George against Charles J. Neal and other. A distribution has been ordered, and the receiver discharged. This case pertained to the sale of the chattels of the old Lincoln garage at Lisbon.

The court has granted leave to the Farmers' National bank of Salem to file an answer and cross petition at once in the case of the bank against J. B. Gunesch and others, an action in foreclosure.

Leave to the defendants to fill an answer by April 20, has been granted in the case of Frederick A. West and others against Jonathan Failer and others, an action based upon a claim for $1,758 said to be due on a contract.

Health Campaign in Schools

A survey by Miss Evelyn Frederick, school nurse, shows that approximately 10 per cent of the East Liverpool district's pupils are suffering from weak eyes, deafness, under-nourishment, diseased tonsils, defective teeth, adenoids, or other physical ailments. The figures are based on personal examinations in 10 elementary schools since the resumption of classes following the Christmas vacation.

The results of the nurse's survey were announced today in connection with a campaign to raise funds to provide glasses for many school children. Receipts from a concert to be presented by the Apollo Male chorus under the auspices of the Lions' club in the high school auditorium on Thursday night will be used to purchase glasses and pay for surgical treatment for deserving children. And on Monday night, May 6, a concert will be presented by the Madrigal club, under the auspices of the City Federation of Women's clubs, to raise funds for general health work.

Investigation indicates there is a field in East Liverpool for the movement sponsored by the service organization and the women's clubs. And this is corroborated by the fact that the board of health is now considering the advisability of a pre-school clinic here.

The Lions' club and Madrigal clubs should have the co-operation of school children's parents and the public in the two benefit entertainments. Both causes are worthy.

Pioneer Fliers

In Washington recently the secretary of war gave America's distinguished flying cross to Orville Wright, who, with his brother, Wilbur, invented the airplane 25 years ago. Many other pioneers of flight are still alive. Where are they, and what are they doing?

The first man to make a public flight in the United States was F. W. Baldwin, who took the Aerial Experiment association biplane, Red Wing, into the air in 1908. He is in Canada working on a new type of motor boat. Alberto Santos-Dumont, the Brazilian, who hopped 600 feet in a sort of motored box kite near Paris in 1906, the first flight in Europe, divides his time between France and his large coffee plantation in Brazil. O. V. Roe, first Englishman to fly a British plane in England, is head of the company making light planes, write Karl Vooght in Popular Science Monthly for May.

As early as 1907, Robert Esnault-Pelterie, the French scientist, was flying his curious "R. E. P." monoplane.
He is now trying to solve the problem of interplanetary transportation. Louis Bleriot, whose crossing of the English channel in 1909 was one of the milestones of flight history, makes planes in France, as does Louis Paulhan, the spectacular Farman pilot who won $100,000 in prizes with his biplane in 1910.

The American pioneer, Glenn Curtiss, has been devoting his time recently to real estate development in the south. Four of the pilots who won the Gordon Bennett Cup race, the pre-war speed classic, are still alive.
All except Curtiss, the first winner, are in the automobile business. Claude Graham-White, who captured the cup in 1910, sells cars in England. Charles T. Weyman won the cup for America in 1911. His fabric automobile body, based upon an idea obtained in flying, is made in France and England. Maurice Prevost, who took the cup to France in 1913, manages a garage at Rheims, France.

Henri Farman, one of the earliest of the brood of European birdmen, is making planes in France with his brother, Maurice, also a pioneer. Gabriel Voisin, designer of Farman's first Voisin biplane, is general manager of the Voisin automobile works, near Paris.

Many of the fliers who handled the clattering, chair-driven Wright biplanes in early days are alive. Harry N. Atwood is head of a manufacturing firm in Monson, Mass. Howard Rhehart, once head pilot for the Wrights, runs an airport near Dayton, Ohio. Katherine Stinson, one of the few women to master the slow-moving Wright machine and who taught her brother, the famous "Eddie" Stinson, to fly, designs houses in Santa Fe, N. M. Frank
T. Coffyn, chief pilot for the Wright school in its palmy 1911 days, sells real estate in Hollywood, California, as do two other early birdmen, Earle T. Ovington, 1911 American Bleriot flier, and Charles F. Willard, one of the original Curtiss exhibition pilots.

Two others who "barnstormed" with the Curtiss fliers in early days are Charles Witmer and August Post. Witmer raises chickens in California and Post is writing and lecturing on aviation.

School Guidance

A school guidance plan has been sponsored by Marion Rotary and Kiwanis clubs which provides for the bringing together of students and business men that the preferred future occupations of the former may be discussed.

Each student will be brought into contact with a business man who has had successful experience in the line which the student has in mind as his future occupation.
Such a plan as this one sponsored by the two luncheon clubs would not get very far toward the result sought were, by way of illustration, a professional man assigned to a student whose preference is the field of mechanics, or were an industrialist of no particular religious tendencies brought into contact with a youth whose preference is for the ministry, unless the professional man in the one case and the industrialist in the other had sufficient insight into the youth's make-up to satisfy himself that the student in question was far better fitted for some other occupation and utterly unfitted for the occupation of his preference.

The man who would attempt to wean a youth away from the occupation he, in mind should be sure of himself, and reasonably sure that the student will be fitted for the occupation he recommends.

In any event, the members of the two clubs who counsel youths about to leave school and enter the battle of life, or any other persons of mature years who may see fit to do so, must realize that they assume a responsibility. The thing is of too great moment to be approached haphazardly.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14.—The extraordinary session of congress just opening at the call of President Hoover has for its principal business the devising of some method of relief for agriculture. "Further agricultural relief and limited changes in the tariff can not in justice to our farmers, our labor, and our manufacturers be postponed," according to the president.

The task to which the congress is addressing itself is divided into three sections: first, the tariff; second, cheaper waterway transportation; and third, farmer-controlled stabilization corporations.

Throughout the campaign Hoover made it clear that he looked to the tariff as one of the surest means of farm relief. He has consistently taken the position that the farmer can not be helped through the medium of anything like a dole, such as is paid to the unemployed by Great Britain. The problem, he believes, as did Mr.
Coolidge during his presidency, must be attacked by readjustment of underlying economic conditions. Tariff adjustment, he thinks, can do more to achieve this than probably any other remedy susceptible of early application.

There is one group of agricultural products which needs immediate protection, according to the best analyses of the situation. This group is composed of farm products which are feeling the competition of foreign nations. Without tariff protection, foreigners may enter our domestic market and undersell our own producers. These products are dairy and poultry products, large imports of which are made possible through modern refrigeration methods, oil seeds, vegetable products, and hides and skins.

Dairy products have long been an object of the attention of American tariff framers. As early as 1857 a tariff was placed on butter and there has been a tariff on that commodity ever since. Nevertheless, foreign butter does enter and a study of the imports under various tariffs does not show a restraining effect due to raised tariff rates.

From 1909 to 1913 the rate on butter was 6 cents a pound and the average importations were 1,647,000 pounds per annum. In 1913 the duty rose to 8 cents a pound and imports sprang to 2,741,000 pounds. The peak of butter importations was reached in 1924 under an 8 cent duty when 29,466,000 pounds came in. But the next year with the tariff unchanged they dropped to 7,189,000 pounds. Then there was an increase in the tariff to 12 cents and imports rose again to 10,710,000 pounds. With the same duty in 1928 imports fell to 4, 393,999 pounds, the lowest in a decade. This shows how difficult tariff framing is. The tariff seems to have worked just the reverse of the manner in which it is supposed to work, imports increasing under a high tariff and declining under a low one. But imported butter amounts to less than 1 per cent of the total consumption.

Probably the chief difficulty to be encountered by the new tariff framers in this congress is the unquestioned fact that the bulk of American farm produce is on an export basis; that is, we produce more than we can possibly consume at home. It is self-evident that it would be idle to place a tariff on commodities of which we already have an oversupply. These great staples—wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco—amounted to 53.2 per cent of total agricultural production in 1927 in terms of value and in 1928 had risen to 54.2 per cent of the total.

While the farmer wants all the relief he can possibly obtain from tariff protection for the goods he produces he also wants tariff relief through reduction of the rates on manufactured goods so that the things which he must buy will be cheaper.

The American Farm Bureau Federation has made some economic studies which show precisely, in terms of dollars, what the farmer gains from protection for his products and what he loses because of tariff protection on the goods he must buy. The whole equation is considerably involved. For example a minority of American farmers produce sugar while all farmers consume it.
Sugar-producing farmers gain $45,800,000 a year in price due to tariff protection on their product but all farmers, most of whom have never produced a pound of sugar, pay $48,100,000 in duty for the sugar they consume. Here the farmer loses $2,300,000 a year.
Going through a list of farm products it is found that the American farmer gains $125,000,000 a year from tariff protection on his own produce while the duties he must pay on imported farm products amounts to some $10,000,000 a year less.

But there is a different story as to manufactured goods. The Federation shows that the farmer pays an aggregate of $331,000,000 a year in tariff or in meeting the domestic, tariff-protected price for non-agricultural products. Therefore, his gains from protection for his own products are outweighed by $301,000,000 a year.

Questions And Answers

This is a special department devoted to the handling of inquiries. You have at your disposal an extensive organization in Washington to serve you in any capacity that relates to information. Write your question, your name, and your address clearly, and enclose two cents in coin or stamps for reply. Send to the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Has-kin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. What states have adopted the Uniform Motor Vehicle Code? A. M. J.

A. The American Motorist says that, so far, Pennsylvania and California are the only states that have enacted the entire code. Twenty states have adopted portions of it. These are: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, District of Columbia, Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, North Carolina, North Dakota, Virginia, and Washington. Six states, Tennessee, Illinois, Wisconsin, New Mexico, Missouri, and Oklahoma, have the code before their legislatures at the present time, while South Dakota is also considering a measure embodying its principle features.

Q. Is there any prospect of connecting San Francisco and Oakland with a bridge? M. W. B.

A. The department of war says that there will probably never be a bridge between Oakland and San Francisco, California.

Q. How long does it take a persimmon tree to bear?
J. C.

A. The Japanese persimmon will bear when it becomes four or five years old. The time at which the native persimmon reaches the bearing period is variable. Under the most favorable condition this tree will bear in from four to six years.

Q. Who was the first to make a map of the world? F. P.

A. Anaximander of Miletus (6th century) is credited with the first attempt to draw a map of the then-known world. Gerhard Kramer, generally known as Mercator, invented the first developed projection and published a map of the world in 1599.

Words of the Wise

The true rule in determining to embrace or reject anything is not wither it have any evil in it, but whether it have more of evil than good. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. —Lincoln.

He who would do some great thing in this short life must apply himself to work with such a concentration of his forces as, to idle spectators, who live only to amuse themselves, looks like insanity. —Parkman.

Fear not that thy life should come to an end, but rather fear that it shall never have a beginning. —Newman.

There are two kinds of discontent in this world: the discontent that works and the discontent that wrings its hands. The first gets what it wants and the second loses what it has.
There's no cure for the first but success; and there's no cure at all for the second. —Graham.

As long as war is regarded as wicked, it will always have its fascination. When it is looked upon as vulgar, it will cease to be popular. —Wilde.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, April 15.—One little reason is completely overlooked in figuring out the why of Broadway's theatrical slump. And that is the reign of theatrical diversion in the home.
Many fashionable dinner parties are followed by a program of professional entertainers.

Broadway is dotted with upstairs agencies providing "Entertainers for every occasion." Many stars of the dramatic, musical comedy and vaudeville stage are procurable and for "a consideration" will remain to mingle with guests. Entire chorus numbers may also be presented.

Paul Whiteman, Ben Bernie or Vincent Lopez—in person—with their bands are on tap for those with the price. So instead of rushing through a dinner and stemming the tides to and from the play, the Rialto may be brought to their family fireside.

Favorite night club entertainers pick up heavy extra money appearing at private functions between regular turns on the dance floor. Tommy Lyman, who whippers his "torch" songs at cafe table edges, is said to double his stipend at select drawing room soirees.

Helen Morgan, Harry Richman and other headliners accept private engagements for something in the neighborhood of a "grand"—which to old-fashioned fossils is one thousand fish.
Chevalier was recently paid $3,000 for three songs at a Vanderbilt home.

One of the popular entertainers is a Hindu with an amazing series of evanishments. He charges $75.00 an hour and has a sly method of teasing audience into asking for more, whooping the bill to several hundred dollars while the host or hostess features a sickly grin.

The most spectacular of the home entertainments was in a mansion in the Snooty Sixties which houses an intimate little theater. Special scenery was installed and a midnight performance was presented of a reigning drama by the original cast.

No city is quite so hideable as New York. It rarely resents restrictions, but obeys dumbly in the manner of sheep. Whalenization of traffic was an example. The regulations became more of a tiresome adventure than a burden. No resentment was apparent. Indeed, people were more pleasant obeying orders than were the police issuing them. At the big movie houses and opera, the patient lines coiling around the blocks moved in snail-like precision without a grumble. Those who pay $10.50 for a theater seat and arrive late make no objection to standing during the first act, if that is a rule.

Few forms of thievery are so overlooked as the piracy of Tin Pan Alley.
Its amiable brigands jest about their pillaging in cafes and theater foyers.
There are, of course, composers who depend solely upon their own talent, but they are scarce. It is in the main a goulish business that plucks fame from the heritage of its illustrious dead. A few bars from Schubert—be-left an estate of $10—made one of the rag time kings a half million in two years.

A patent leather flourish in pool halls—purdun, billiard academies—is noted in a stretch of the smart section in Lexington avenue. It has six ivory white tables with attendants in full dress, even to white gloves, and its walls are hung with a few Corots and Rembrandts. A table is $5 an hour. And to those of us whose billard experience was gained with Jay Price at Shorty's—2½ cents a sue—the price seems to be what grandpa called "hellmighy steep."

At an auspicious theatrical first night recently one of the humming bird debutantes who buzzes from aisle to aisle between acts waited for a dark and tense moment to whisper throatily: "Heavens, I left my pearls in the car!" And many of us haven't felt so much like that since the last trip to Bermuda.

From the London Observer: "Innumerable New Yorkers dressed as smart go to the theater in formal dress."

But, to slip over a headpiece, we are often very noble in our uncouth simplicity. We do not give foreign players "the bird."

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

Your poor old liver is a much-abused organ. It is called upon to take from your system great quantities of poisons, some of them perfectly natural and, in that sense, "proper." But unfortunately we are careless of our highest welfare and are inclined not to guard the liver against unecessary demands upon its powers.

An important part of the blood vessel system of the body, is a group of veins beginning in the lower intestine and bowel. The blood is carried from here into larger veins, all part of what is called the "portal system." In this way it reaches the liver.

The portal blood is filled with bacteria and poisons which have originated in the waste materials in the bowel. Of course, Nature has adopted wonderful protective measures and, under fairly normal conditions, will prevent the escape through the portal system of more such agents than the liver can destroy or modify without undue effort.

The liver is a laboratory where wonderful things are done. It is its function to "work over" the poisonous things and feed them into the general blood circulation so slowly, or so changed, that they do us no harm.

If it were not for this remarkable action, these poisons would get immediately into the general blood supply and life would be pretty doubtful.
As it is, however, this much-abused liver does us a good turn many times a day. It is one of our best friends.

One of the faults of modern life is the consumption of foods that make for constipation and fermentation in the bowel. Germ action goes on and poisons are developed which are bad for us.

It is not well for us to overlook the evil effects of constipation. There can be no doubt that it is capable of doing us real harm. Except for the watchful care of the liver, in filtering out these poisons, we would certainly suffer far more than we do.

No longer do we talk of "biliousness" as our ancestors did, but it cannot be denied that many a person is hampered in his work by the neglect of intestinal cleanliness. The poor liver has been overcrowded in consequence and has failed to keep the overabundance of poisons from reaching the vital parts.

Headache is the most familiar symptom. Sickiness at the stomach, sleeplessness, unwillingness to work, loss of appetite, irritability, mental dullness, coated tongue, brown spots of the skin, unclean complexion, dark circles around the eyes—all these are signs of a neglected intestine or an overworked liver.

Each of us should be careful about the diet. Roughage to cleanse the intestinal walls, fruit and vegetables and proper eating habits generally, are essential for our general welfare.
Life depends on the liver!

Pants in Persia.

At no far distant day it won't be any more fun being a Persian or a Turk than a staid American business man. For now, in addition to taking away their turbans and fezzes, abolishing the multitudinous wives and making them go to school, the Shah of Persia has decreed that menfolk in those parts must wear trousers instead of robes.

When Kemal decreed that the derby must replace the fez for the Turk the tourist agencies gave forth sobs of anguish, for there went some of the scenery that makes touring what it is today. Later the Shah followed suit, and while the fact that his order made it possible for a German cap company to unload 2,000,000 cheap caps in that land, there has been no hint of convenience to date. Apparently western types of living are following on the heels of western hygiene.

MUSICAL COMEDY WINS ON SCREEN

The first talking picture to launch specially composed musical song hits for the screen, just as they are launched to fame in stage musical comedies, opened the State theater last night, when "The Broadway Melody," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular all-talking, all-singing, all-dancing romance, had its first showing in East Liverpool.

The new picture, in which gorgeous stage spectacles, ballets and song ensembles are interspersed with a vivid drama of life among the show folk behind the scenes, has special song hits, including "Broadway Melody," "The Love Boat," "You Were Meant for Me," "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" and others specially concocted for the play by Arthur Freed and Nacio Herb Brown, celebrated composers of "The Doll Dance."

Anita Page and Bessie Love appear as a "sister act," and Charles King, Broadway musical comedy star, is the hero. The cast includes Ned Prouty, Kenneth Thompson, Edward Dillon, Mary Moran, J. Emmett Beck, Marshall Ruth, Drew Demarest and other celebrities of stage and screen.

The most spectacular stage scenes include the ballet and song ensemble, "Wedding of the Painted Doll," in natural colors, and the huge "Love Boat" scene with its great silver ship, specially designed by Cedric Gibbons. The theme abounds in humor, pathos and romance and is as dramatic as it is spectacular.

CLARA BOW WINS "TALKIE" HONORS

Those movie-goers who have always thought that Clara Bow had the monopoly on that vague but real, elusive but stable thing—"It," were given a chance to re-enforce their convictions last night at the Ceramic theater, but they were forced to admit that even Clara has the monopoly there are a number of near-monopolizers in the offing.

For Paramount has packed more "It" girls into "The Wild Party" than ever were called to the support of a single star before. There are twelve of these "starlets" in the cast with Clara Bow.

One of their number plays the role of a "busybody" and all the others have them.

They dance, caper, play basketball, drive autos, pet and neck—everything in the category of the whoopee-making, "hey-hey" college girl.

Clara has an opportunity to demonstrate her prowess as a speaking actress, and she makes every line effective.

In this picture which deals with the loves and caprices of flaming youth, Miss Bow is required to develop an "Americanese" inflection and manner in her speech, and she does the near-slang dialogue with a discerning intelligence which will be a pleasant experience for the millions who have seen her in film; but who have never heard her voice heretofore.

TEARS, LAUGHS AT AMERICAN

There are few pictures being made now that can evoke a large audience into a silence of tears and the very next moment make them laugh—a loud uproarious guffaw of spontaneous merriment—yet D. W. Griffith's "The Battle of the Sexes" shown at the American theater last night did that very thing.

The joys of the average home; its disappointments; its humor and small tragedies have been ably caught by Griffith who shows an innate sense of the romanticism lying behind America's greatest institution.

It seems safe to say that no better example of comedy through pathos has been seen in years. The picture is so thoroughly human that a sympathetic flow of interest is aroused in the actions of all of its players.

The story is built upon the theme of a modern gold-digger who wrecks a man's home and steals the man to satisfy her own lust for gold. In the end she loses the man but is victorious in that she has accomplished her purpose—money. Throughout the story there is a strong upper current of pathos as the man's wife and two children struggle to regain their home—the old battle of the sexes.

Jean Hersholt, as the erring father, portrays what is easily one of the finest character roles of his great career. Phyllis Haver as the gold-digger, Marie, plays an unsympathetic role and is the direct cause of much of the comedy. Belle Bennett gives a sympathetic performance as the mother who becomes half-crazed; Sally O'Neil is natural as an unsophisticated home-girl who is instrumental in bringing her estranged parents back to the domestic fold and Don Alvarado as Jimmy plays the role of a male gold digger.

Never Be Without It. "Baby had a bad cough with each tooth she cut. She is also subject to croup. Our never-failing remedy is Foley's Honey and Tar. It cuts the choking mucus, clears the throat, and stops the bad cough," says Mrs. Agnes Barnes, Altoona, Penna. Contains no opiates or chloroform, nothing that a careful mother hesitates to give her child. Just the well-known curative virtues of pure pine tar, fresh, clear honey and other valuable cough and tissue healing ingredients. Ask for it. —For sale by Carnahan's 3 Drug Stores.—Adv.

17 CONVERTED AT NAZARENE REVIVAL MEET

Rev. G. Howard Rowe, Brooklyn, Delivers Sermon.

SPECIAL MUSIC

"Second Coming of Christ" Will be Topic Tonight.

Seventeen persons accepted the invitation to begin a Christian life following a sermon by the Rev. G. Howard Rowe.

HONORS FRIEND

After a long tedious flight from Mexico City to New York, Colonel Charles Lindbergh, above, arrived at Mitchell Field in time for the funeral of late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, who guided Lindy through the whirl of social functions which attended his famous flight to Paris. He accompanied the body from New York to Cleveland, where burial was made Monday.

and Rowe, of Brooklyn, N. Y., at the Nazarene revival, St. Clair avenue, last night. He spoke on the subject: "When Coney Island Turned Into a Prayer Meeting."

During the first week of the revival campaign, about 40 men and women have taken the initial step toward an experience in religion.

Burl Sparks, of Seymour, Ind., in addition to directing a period of song, sang twice during the preliminary service, his numbers being "I'll Never Let the Devil Win," repeated by request and "My Heritage." He also contributed a handsaw number.

"What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "Five Reasons Why I Believe the Lord Will Soon Return," will be the theme of the Rev. Mr. Rowe tonight.

God's apparent unconcern to the world's sin, why He withholds judgment and the fact that He is not slack in His promises were noted in turn by the evangelist last night.

"God is concerned with the sin of the people and He has taken cognizance of their shortcomings at various intervals in the world's history," he said.

He noted, as illustrations, the flood, the captivity of Israel, the destruction of Jerusalem, the exile of the Jews following the expedition of Titus, the downfall of Rome, the insurrections of France, the wreckage of Russia, the recent disaster to Germany, the San Francisco earthquake and the sinking of the Titanic.

He gave a glowing description of the Black Tom explosion in Bayonne, N. J., by which the sky was reddened for the entire night in the proximity of Coney Island during the World war.

"People who started out that night with no thought save for amusement were so horrified by what they saw and heard from the stricken area and overwhelmed by the reddened skyline over them that some in their frenzy jumped into the ocean and committed suicide," he said. "But the great majority turned to God in earnest prayer."

The Rev. Mr. Rowe witnessed this disaster.

Such a spectacle was but the forerunner of what may ultimately come to pass," he held. "The Lord is long suffering to us and is not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to Him in repentance."

MARTINS FERRY
MAN HONORED
BY PRESBYTERY

Rev. John Sharp Elected Moderator at Salineville.

DISTRICT LEADER

Rev. Frank H. Randall Discusses Work of Evangelization.

SALINEVILLE, O., April 16.—The Rev. John Sharp, of Martins Ferry, who is superintendent of work among the foreign-born in the St. Clair and Steuersville presbyteries, was elected moderator of the latter body at the spring session here yesterday afternoon.

Though a native of Scotland, he came to this country when a young man and for a period was a classmate of former President Calvin Coolidge in Amherst college. He is well known in East Liverpool, where he has frequently filled the Presbyterian pulpits.

The retiring moderator, the Rev.
Frank H. Randall, of Dennison, discussed the work of evangelization. He stressed the fact that the art of saving souls has been largely lost in the church's method of evangelization and that it had gone far from the real purpose of evangelization.

"What is being done in a social way by our present evangelistic tendencies is good and the teaching thus derived is fine, but I fear we are losing the basic idea of evangelization—the saving and salvaging of human souls," he declared.

The Gospel in China was the subject of the Rev. John M. Creighton, who is now in the United States following a service as missionary in that country. He outlined the work that is being done there.

The session of the presbytery will close this afternoon.

Frank P. Williams

Frank P. Williams, member of the board of health, was engaged in the cooperage business in East Liverpool for 44 years before he retired in 1926.
Williams was born in Warren county, Pa., a son of John and Lucy Williams. While he was an infant, his parents moved to Corydon, Pa. Accompanied by his brother, the late S. C.
Williams, he came to East Liverpool on a raft, loaded with lumber, in 1879.
He launched a cooperage business in Elm street in 1882 and later established other shops in College street, near the Chester bridge, Chester, and in Newell. He was operating two shops in 1926 when the business was sold to the Lawrence Cooperage company.

Williams served as a member of the sinking fund trustees during the administration of Mayor S. W. Crawford.
He was a county commissioner from 1917 to 1919, and was named to fill out the unexpired term of his brother on the board of health in February, 1928, and was reappointed for a five-year term on Jan. 1, 1929.

He is a trustee of the First Methodist Episcopal church, and a member of the Odd Fellows and Woodmen of the World. Although he is a Democrat in politics, Williams cast his first vote for James G. Blaine, Republican, in the presidential race in 1884.

STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, April 16.—Most of the active industrial stocks drifted to a lower level of prices in a dull and slow market this morning. The effects of yesterday's professional selling were seen in the liberal sprinkling of selling orders for the industrial favorites, including American Can, Steel common, Chrysler Motor, Packard, New York Central, etc. Near the end of the first hour, a feeble rally restored a part of the early losses.

Not much money has flowed into Wall street banks this week. It is unlikely that time and call funds will move much below 8 1/2 and 8 per cent.

United States Steel was quiet, while awaiting definite news on the new stock issue, which will not be available until after the close of the market today.

Bethlehem and Republic Steel sold up about a point each.

which Mrs. Fields was asleep, picking up a cigar box containing about $3 in change.

Mrs. Fields, awakened, leaped from her bed just in time to see the boy leave the room. She screamed to her husband and the suspect, she says, dropped the box and ran to the basement. Fields captured the boy and he was brought to East Liverpool and turned over to the police.

The boy, according to McShane told conflicting stories. McShane said that he admitted having robbed the Country Club once before and said that he had entered two Northside homes a few weeks ago.

personal examination, since the first of the year, of children in 10 elementary schools. At least two or three other buildings will be visited before the summer vacation.

An average of 14 cases of defective sight have been found in each room.
Miss Frederick said.

In one room Miss Frederick found that 12 children were in need of glasses. The glasses were obtained for nine of these children and instantly an improvement in their grades resulted. Miss Frederick also discovered the case of a 7-year-old boy who suffered from headaches, so severe that the teacher was forced to send him home every day. Two weeks ago the child was fitted with glasses.
Since then he has never been troubled with headaches.

Six Children Blind In One Eye.

Thus far the nurse has found six children who are blind in one eye.
Many pupils are in need of surgical attention to prevent them from becoming totally blind.

A card index record is kept of every child who is examined. From this record a report is made to the parents, with the request that steps be taken as soon as possible to correct the defects. Many of these defects retard the child's school work.
Physicians and service clubs have given assistance in cases of where the parents are unable to pay for treatment. The City Federation of Women's clubs is furnishing milk for undernourished children whose parents are unable to meet the expense.
Approximately $300 is needed to meet the needs of the school nurse in furnishing glasses. The Lions' club is considering the establishment of a school here next year where children suffering from weak eyes may be given special instruction. These classes could be conducted at an expense which has been estimated at $2,000 a year.

TERRY TELLS SAFEGUARDS IN

State Official Guest
At Rotary Club
Luncheon.

OGLIVIE IN CHAIR

Dinner Planned for Essay Contest
Winners.

Regulation of the issuance and sale of securities in Ohio was discussed by Attorney Orman G. Terry, formerly of East Liverpool, now with the Department of Commerce, Division of Securities, Columbus, at today's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A.
Terry was introduced by D. M.
Ogilvie, dry goods merchant. About 25 members and their guests attended.

Charles Boyce, chairman of the boys' work committee, announced that the winners in the essay-writing contest, conducted among elementary school boys, would be entertained at a dinner meeting in the Y. M. C. A. symposium next Tuesday night. A program will be given by the children of the Third street school.

Text of Address.

Terry said in part:
"One of the most important executive branches of our state government is the Department of Commerce and a subdivision of major importance under this Department is the division of securities. The division of securities is charged with the administration of the Ohio blue sky act.

There are two types of securities act, fraud and regulatory. The former exercise no jurisdiction over the securities themselves, but rely for their effectiveness upon the penalties which are provided where stocks, bonds or other securities are sold fraudulently.
"Fraud, deceit and misrepresentation is such by its nature that its existence is very seldom realized for some period of time. The unscrupulous person who is inclined to prey upon the public with fraud stock selling promotion is one whose residence is ever changing. When the harm is discovered his address will probably be unknown and the investment of the innocent purchaser will be beyond recovery.

The fraud acts are fast giving way to the second type of enactments, which are the true blue sky laws. Blue sky laws in that they regulate and prohibit. Truly regulatory in that they say who shall dispose or offer to dispose of securities to the public and truly prohibitive in that they prohibit the sale of securities except upon certain conditions and then only after the proposition has met certain requirements.

Ohio at Cross Roads.

"Ohio is located at the very cross roads of our country, but a step from the eastern water front, and in this day of rapid air transportation but a short distance from the western boundary. And it is estimated that 80,000,000 people of 105,000,000 in continental United States can be reached by rail within 18 hours.

"A considerable amount of the country's business is transacted at this cross road. Ohio is rich in natural resources, with over 2,000 mines and 17,000 manufacturing enterprises, it furnishes the nation with raw and manufactured materials. In return Ohio receives compensation for this production in credits and monetary returns. Ohio has 1,000 national and state banks with combined assets of $2,500,000,000, and savings and loan associations with assets totalling in excess of $850,000,000.

"The outstanding success of legiti-mate corporate ventures opens the way for the fraudulent promoter. His illegitimate schemes are in theory, patterned after the success of the legitimate. It is the business of the division to distinguish between the two.
To facilitate the success of the first and prohibit the operation of the second.

"How do we determine under the general rule of certification if the proposition is such as to warrant the approval of the department? The issuing company must first make formal application setting forth the following material. Name of the company, principal business office, date of incorporation and set up as authorized by the office of the Secretary of State;

name and address of the corporate officers and directors, with a detailed itemization of the investment of each, their total worth, amount of time devoted to the company and salary to be received from the company; description of the securities to be offered, the purpose and manner of financing. There must be attached and made a part of the application, certified copies of the articles of corporation, by laws, minutes, etc., together with a copy of the sales contract under which the stock, notes, bonds or other securities are to be sold. To this is added a sworn financial statement as of the last fiscal year and a statement of profit and loss covering the same period.

Explains Department's Work.

"Armed with this our examiner makes an investigation and returns with a complete report. The pending application may be disposed of in one of three ways. It may be approved, refused or withdrawn.
"Take a new organizing company for instance, there is that matter of business repute of the officers and directors. Should the public's money be permitted to go into a company being sponsored and to be operated by persons who have failed in recent previous enterprises or who have misappropriated or misused funds formerly entrusted with them? Are the managing heads large enough for the enterprise in question, and qualified to carry out the purposes for which the securities are to be sold? How much cash or property are the promoters placing in the venture and what salary are they to receive? Is any, and if so, how much stock is to be issued in consid-

Surround these activities," he warned.
"Certain vital principles must be adhered to in order that we may not undermine the freedom of our farmers and of our people as a whole by bureaucratic and governmental domination and interference.
"We must not undermine initiative.
There should be no fee or tax imposed upon the farmer. No governmental agency should engage in buying and selling and price fixing of products."

The troubles of the farmer, he concluded, "cannot be cured in a day."
"They cannot all be cured by legislation; they cannot be cured by the federal government alone.
"We must make a start."

Praises Forney-McCumber Bill.

Turning then to the tariff, the president praised the Forney-McCumber bill of 1922, observing that in the main it has worked well.

"Nevertheless," he said, "economic changes have taken place during that time which have placed certain domestic products at a disadvantage and new industries have come into being, all of which creates the necessity of some limited changes in the schedules."

Mr. Hoover mentioned no specific commodities which he thought need aid, advising congress that in surveying the field it should take account of those industries that have experienced "a substantial slackening of activity."

"I am impressed with the fact that we also need important revision of some of the administrative phases of the tariff. The tariff commission should be reorganized and placed on a basis of higher salaries in order that we may command men of the broadest attainments. Seven years of experience have proved the principle of a flexible tariff to be practical."

However, he said, the basis upon which it makes recommendations should be improved.

eration for patents, services, goodwill or other intangible items? Who is going to sell the securities to the public and at what commission? And what will the financial status of the company show as of financing and as of beginning business?

"The problems presented are somewhat the same in passing upon the issues of a going concern. Except that probably a greater weight is given to the matter of earnings and present financial strength of the company. It is here that the applicant must submit appraisements and audits as of the last fiscal year.

500 Licensed Dealers.

"It is not the purpose of our department to prohibit or regulate to that degree that an unreasonable restraint is placed upon business. We should not and cannot attempt to protect the purchaser from the natural element of chance that enters into every business venture. Neither can we or should we attempt the management of every enterprise issuing securities. If the department can safeguard the public to that degree which will insure his investment being used for the purpose for which it is intended a valuable service has been performed.

"The exemptions heretofore referred to are as I have set forth an exception to the general rule. Upon the filing of certain information the securities meeting the requirements of exemption are automatically qualified.
The underwriting exemption is one most adaptable to the needs of the securities business.
"That the present licensed dealers represent a chosen group of investment brokers is evidenced by the fact that today Ohio has only 500 licensed dealers compared with 1,600 in 1922 and only 1,100 agents as compared with 5,515 six years ago."

POLICE REPORT
BANKER MISSING

NILES, O., April 16.—(INS)—Carter McConnell, 49, secretary of the Mc-Kinley Savings & Loan company, has been missing since last night, it was revealed by police here today.
McConnell was to have attended a meeting and made a report to the Masonic Temple association, of which he is treasurer. He was seen last night in the bank and in his own automobile in front of it.
Officials of the bank and the Masonic Temple association today expressed confidence in McConnell's integrity and said they feared he might have been the victim of foul play.

COOPER SIGNS
SIX MEASURES

Governor Also Vetoes
Pickaway County
Proposal.

COLUMBUS, O., April 16.—(INS)— Announcement of Gov. Myers V. Cooper's veto on one measure and of his approval of six other bills enacted during the present legislative session was made today at the governor's office.

The governor disapproved the bill by Representative Walter J. Marlon, Circleville, which sought to authorize the board of trustees of Darby township, Pickaway county, to pay G. M.
Garrison $120.24 for lumber he delivered in 1921 to the board. Garrison was said to have been a member of the board when the lumber was delivered and, for this reason, he was prevented at that time from receiving payment for the lumber.

The following measures were approved by the governor:
The Weir bill, authorizing election of an additional common pleas judge in Trumbull county.

The Bohn bill, providing for election of three additional common pleas judges in Cuyahoga county.

The Kumber bill, providing for direct commitment of insane persons and revising the state code dealing with insane persons.

The Farnsworth bill, relative to the construction of roads by county commissioners.

The McCormick bill, authorizing the state to sell part of the Ohio canal bed land to abutting property owners.

The Ward bill, authorizing the city of Columbus to lay a sewer across land at Ohio state university.

To date, Governor Cooper has ve-ted four and approved 56 of the 223 measures passed at the present legislative session. He must pass upon the remaining bills, including the 160 to be signed at today's legislative session, within 16 days, excluding Sunday.

The legislature is not expected to oppose the governor's vetoes which blue-penciled the following measures:
The Miller-McCormick bill, which would have permitted officials of state-controlled universities and colleges to issue and sell bonds for the purpose of erecting dormitories; the Wise bill, providing for appointment of a deputy state treasurer; the Em-mons bill, authorizing creation of a division of the deaf and blind in the state department of education; and the Marion bill, to reimburse Garrison.

TORCH SLAYER ADMITS HE IS

H. C. Campbell Says
He is Forger and Embezzler.

FORMER CONVICT

Polygamist and Modern Bluebeard Story
Given Police.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 16.— (INS)—Henry Colin Campbell, confessed "torch slayer" of Mrs. Mildred Mowry today tore aside the veil of his past life and admitted, authorities stated, that he was Henry C. Close, forger, embezzler, ex-convict, polygamist and modern bluebeard.

Detectives and Bertillon experts in New York compared the fingerprints of Campbell and Close and found them to be identical.

When confronted with this startling fact today, Campbell readily admitted that he was the man who disappeared from public sight in 1909 after a career of crime, nation-wide in scope.

Thomas Galles, manager of a hotel in Newark, will try to identify Campbell as the mysterious "Dr. Ross," Miss Margaret Brown, governess, was killed and burned on a lonely road near Bernardsville. Miss Brown's body was found on the morning of February 21, 1928.

Attorney Francis A. Gordon, who has been retained by Campbell to defend him, laid the groundwork of his defense when he had the prisoner subjected to the examinations of a number of alienists. Gordon has indicated he will attempt to save Campbell from the electric chair by pleading insanity, induced by the use of drugs.

AGUA PRIETA
FACES BOMBING

Three Mexican Planes Hop for Rebel Stronghold.

NACO, SONORA, Mexico, April 16.
—Loaded to capacity with aerial explosives, three loyalist airplanes took off from the federal garrison here today, headed apparently for the insurgent stronghold at Agua Prieta.

The trio of planes each carried ten projectiles, ostensibly for the purpose of bombing the Agua Prieta camp.
Reports that two airplanes were shot down in combat at Agua Prieta lacked confirmation here and at Douglas, Arizona, just across the border from the rebel garrison.

MEXICO CITY, April 16.—The attention of the American embassy here today was focused on Empalme, near Guaymas, Sonora, where the threatened bombardment of a rebel concentration may endanger the lives of a number of Americans.

Fire Chief Measure Slated For Council

Duties to be Outlined and Salary Established; Michael Alley Paving, Labor Boost Scheduled Tonight, Also.

WELLSVILLE, O., April 16.—Legislation defining the duties and establishing a salary for the fire chief, resolution for the paving of Michael alley, as well as an ordinance to boost the municipal labor wage are scheduled for city councilmen tonight.

At the last meeting of council, Solicitor Raymond Knepper was instructed, through the council clerk, George Hardman, to prepare an ordinance outlining the duties of the chief of the fire department.

Solicitor Knepper said today that the ordinance had not been prepared inasmuch as he could not outline the chief's duties himself and he had not been informed concerning them by anyone else. He said it was possible he would discuss the ordinance with city officials prior to council meeting.

As a result, the solicitor was not exactly sure whether or not this ordinance would be called out.

Michael alley is being paved at the request of property owners there.

Legislation was asked at last council meeting also for the increasing of service department employees' pay from 45 cents to 50 cents an hour.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

SWEETEST STORY EVER TOLD

Another Proof That This Great Discovery Has Real Value

"Driving a truck in all sorts of weather and making frequent deliveries cannot be said to be the easiest job in the world. The exposure to the weather is likely to result in unpleasant consequences." That was what Mr. Ralph Basel, Sharon, Pa., learned. Telling about his experiences, he said: "I caught an occasional cold that never got quite cleared up before another one came along. This led to headaches and noises in my head. I used to look around to see who was coming for I was sure I heard a horn only to find no one in sight. Soon I had a cough—not a hard one, but I had to clear my nose and throat every morning. This was so disagreeable I did not want any breakfast. This led to heavier lunches on the road, and they did not agree with me. One morning I woke up with a headache, and that stayed with me off and on for months. My shoulders felt stiff, and I would have pains in my legs and arms."

"I began to think I was getting too old for outdoor work. I had to take great care of my stomach, and every night I felt utterly worn out. I was hunting and easier job when one of my buddies told me he had used World's Tonic. His case was a good deal like mine, so I decided to see what World's Tonic would do for me."

"Say, it was wonderful how quickly all these aches and pains disappeared. In a month I was eating what I needed for everything, and was sleeping like a baby. From what I hear, experiences like mine are an old story to you fellows, but believe me it is the sweetest story I ever told. World's Tonic has made that truck job feel like a snap now. I'll tell the world."

Yes, it is an old story to people around World's Tonic headquarters. But it is a real one at that, because it shows one more added to the great number who have been helped by this remarkable medicine, which can be obtained at Carnahan's, also C. M. Brannan's at Wellsboro, or any other first class drug store. (A-23)Adv.

James Gilbert Potter, son of the Rev. William Potter, was licensed to preach following an examination conducted by the Rev. L. B. Llewellyn, Elm Grove, and the Rev. John Muyskens, Wheeling. He later delivered a short sermon.

The principal address at the night session was given by the Rev. Donald MacKenzie, professor in the Western Theological seminary, Pittsburgh. Other ministers from Hancock county attending are the Rev. William Bullock, pastor of the Fairview Presbyterian church, Pughtown, and the Rev. D. C. Morton, pastor of the Holiday's Cove church.

M. E. Price of New Cumberland, and E. L. Hindman, Holiday's Cove are lay delegates.

Plan To Visit Woodfield. The Rev. and Mrs. William Bullock and daughter Mary of Pughtown will leave tomorrow for a short visit with friends in Woodfield, O., where the Rev. Mr. Bullock was formerly located.

Rev. Roach To Preach. The Rev. Harry R. Roach, former assistant pastor of the Norristown, Pa. Presbyterian church, will preach Sunday morning in the Fairview Presbyterian church, Pughtown.

CHICKEN, DOG OWNERS WARNED

Owners of dogs and chickens must keep them from running at large under the provisions of an ordinance enacted last night by council. The measure, which carries a fine for violations, was passed after complaints had been received from property owners citing damages done to yards and gardens.

Councilman D. R. Linger will entertain his colleagues at a dinner in his home Friday night.

Class Meeting Tonight. Loyal Daughters class of the First Church of Christ will meet tonight in the church when plans will be completed for a playlet to be given next month.

SERVICE

Unmeasured in Dollars and Cents

On certain services it is impossible to set monetary value. The service that a physician might render in saving a human life, for example, could not be expressed in dollars and cents. Or that a man who, at great personal danger, saves another from what seems certain death.

In a different degree, but upon the same principle, one cannot accurately place a valuation on the services rendered a city by its transportation system. It contributes, perhaps more than any other single factor, to the growth and expansion of the community; to the convenience of every resident; to the development and maintenance of real estate values; and to the stimulation of all forms of business and commercial enterprises.

It is this company's desire that its continued efforts to improve service be regarded as an investment in East Liverpool's future, and an evidence of confidence in East Liverpool's continued growth and prosperity.

Draws Full Time Envelope Since Taking "Orange Root"

Owens Bottle Plant Worker Was So Sickly and Rundown Worked About Half Time — Says Since Taking "ORANGE ROOT" Hasn't Lost a Day's Work and Feels Energized and Strengthened All Over.

Mr. R. E. Lewis of 731 Washington Ave., Huntington, W. Va., employed at the bottle plant here gives "ORANGE ROOT" Iron & Celery Compound full credit for restoring him to BOUNDING HEALTH after everything else he had taken failed to benefit him in any way. He says: "I took my hat off to 'O R A N G E ROOT.' It is truly ALL they claim for it, and deserves all the praise accorded it.

Having been in an awful rundown condition for sometime, I tried many different so-called tonics, but they proved to be nothing in the world but common physics, and made me weaker than ever. I was loath to try this ORANGE ROOT for I feared it was just another 'fake.' I was so weak and tired that I lost an awful lot of time at the plant. I worked only about half the time. I had no energy, no appetite, get-up or nothing. I just felt all-in all the time. Since taking a few bottles of ORANGE ROOT and a golden Nugget occasionally, all my old-time strength returned, my appetite came back strong, and I feel like a new made man. I can now go to work and work hard all day long, and NEVER get tired at all. I am working full time now, and think ORANGE ROOT the greatest strengthening and building TONIC on earth. It surely does pep one up, re-

Captain Harry Black, secretary of Harbor No. 25, Masters, Mates and Pilots' Association of America, stated yesterday that numerous complaints are being made as to the navigation lights on highway bridge crossing the Ohio river at Sewickley. "WILD PARTY" AT CERAMIC

The story of "The Wild Party" from the pen of Warner Fabian, author of "Flaming Youth," is a tale of a girl who falls in love with one of her teachers, a young man who returns her love in spite of her capricious attendance at wild parties. Underlying the spirit of unfettered youth, however, is the steadfast loyalty of the girl for her chum and room-mate, and when the critical test of that loyalty comes, Clara tells a lie to save her girlfriend from disgrace. The climax forces Clara to leave college, but the professor, the man she loves, decides that he too, will forsake the academic existence for the prosaic life of the busy work-a-day world. Now playing at the Ceramic theater.

The house of Baldwin began its business career in 1862—over 66 years ago. During this time they have provided hundreds of thousands of American homes with their world-famous musical instruments. The reputation for fair dealings of the Baldwin's and of the absolute truthfulness of every claim they make is today tested by their friends and customers scattered all over the states and territories of the Union.

The scientific construction of the Baldwin instrument is exclusive. The Baldwin acoustic system embraces the recognition and adoption of the laws of acoustics, and is patented in every detail. It is the result of patient experimenting, persistent effort and judicious expenditure of money. This system gives the purchaser a piano of exquisite tone quality resembling the human voice—a piano that sings.

The artistic superiority of Baldwin instruments over all others is recognized by artists, experts, connoisseurs and amateurs alike.

Marella Sembrich, the great songstress, uses the Baldwin piano not only on her concert tours exclusively but also has one in her home because "its tone blends so well with her voice." There are many other world renowned pianists who use and endorse the Baldwin. Thousands of testimonials certify to its great artistic value and they are famous because they are beautiful.

The Baldwin is the first and only piano made in the West used in the New York Philharmonic and Boston Symphony Orchestra Concerts by artists of international reputation. It is the first and only piano made in America ever honored with the "Grand Prix" (the highest possible recognition) at a Paris International exhibition. It is the first and only piano in the world receiving such high honors the first time it was exhibited.

Every instrument of Baldwin manufacture is fully warranted and this warranty is supported not only by the financial responsibility but—better than that—by the reputation of the House of Baldwin.

Summing up all these good reasons is positive proof that it is safe to buy a Baldwin instrument. In purchasing one of these beautiful instruments you are certain to obtain one which you may be proud and which will give you pleasure and satisfaction for a lifetime. MRS. A. J. TIPTON.

"I can not find words to express my gratitude for Konjola, nor my amazement at the way it relieved me after eleven years of dreadful suffering from neuritis and rheumatism," said Mrs. A. J. Tipton, 215 Oak street, Ludlow.

"To add to my pain, my stomach was almost ruined by the strong medicines I took in the hope of relieving the rheumatism and neuritis. These wrecked my digestive system, but did not do the least bit of good. My entire body was a mass of aches and pains."

"When Konjola was recommended to me I was inclined to scoff, for I had no more faith in medicines. But friends insisted. The result was simply wonderful. My stomach was strengthened so that I could digest anything. I feared this this relief might be only temporary, but months have passed and the magnificent health that Konjola restored to me is with me yet. No wonder Konjola is known as the master medicine, and I recommend it from the bottom of my happy heart."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan's drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Dizziness and Stomach Dis- orders Vanish In Short Time

Owa-Ton-Na Overcomes Condition Which Caused Mrs.
Lemley Five Years of Suffering.

Good digestion is enjoyed by so few that sometimes stomach disorders are taken as a matter of course by many until this condition reaches a more serious stage. Present day foods and methods of living frequently aid in bringing about weakness in digestion. Constipation is such a prevalent disorder and probably is one of the greatest causes of stomach disorders. Poor elimination of wastes from the body allows these wastes to ferment, gradually harming the whole digestive tract. Owa-Ton-Na is a particularly valuable aid in disorders of this kind. It aids nature in the elimination of these poisons and wastes, cleanses the stomach and intestinal tract, tones the liver thus aiding in the whole digestive process. Its benefits are sometimes so quickly apparent that the sufferer is surprised; yet its results are accomplished not by the use of harmful drugs but by nature's own roots, herbs, barks and berries.

One of East Liverpool's well known residents has found Owa-Ton-Na particularly helpful in such a condition. Mrs. Henrietta Lemley, 205 Armstrong Lane, East Liverpool, Ohio. She says: "Anyone who has suffered with indigestion knows the misery that one can go through with this condition. It hardly made any difference what I ate. I would always have trouble. Gas attacks made my stomach feel as though it were bloated up like a drum. This would crowd my heart and would make me very short of breath."

"Food just seemed to ferment and lay in my stomach. I had an awful lot of trouble with constipation, yet laxatives didn't seem to do me any good, in fact my condition seemed to get worse all the time. My liver, too, must have been very sluggish as I just felt tired and worn out all the time. Gradually my kidneys began to bother me, at times I would get bad dizzy spells and headaches. I tried so many things, in fact it seems I have tried everything ever heard of, yet one after another these medicines and treatments would give me no relief."

"I read so much about the good Owa-Ton-Na had done for so many people; and when I tried it, it did the same for me. My appetite improved and food didn't distress me. I certainly was surprised when I could go one whole day without suffering with gas. Is it any wonder that I feel so good about Owa-Ton-Na? My bowels started to function normally almost from the first and gradually my stomach trouble disappeared. No more dizzy spells and headaches and my kidneys are functioning normally again. I have never before given my name to be used to endorse anything but I am so well pleased with the results that Owa-Ton-Na gives that I feel that if I can help anyone else who is suffering as I did, that it will be a good deed."

Mrs. Lemley is sincere in her endorsement of this fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na. It has helped thousands in kidney, liver and stomach disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run down condition of health. Surely it can help you, too. It is at least worth a trial and a trial is usually sufficient to prove its merits to you. For a short time a special laboratory representative is located at Carnahan's 114 East Sixth street Store, East Liverpool, who will be glad to tell you about the merits of Owa-Ton-Na. This service is free and incurs no obligation. Owa-Ton-Na is also sold at Carnahan's East End Store, and Newell, W. Va., Store.—Adv.

Chills And Thrills Promised As Major Leagues Start Drives

New York, Chicago Tilts Opening Day Headliners

Pirate-Cub Clash, With Hornsby Appearing for First Time in Bruin Raiment, Should Pack Them in; Yanks Battle Red Sox.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Baseball, the master hand that twangs the strings of a country's emotions, will play its theme song into the ear of a waiting nation this afternoon. It will be played loudly, blatantly and with ostentation, as is baseball's way, but to the ear that has become stone deaf with listening in vain since last October, the staccato note of the batted ball and the whining of the base hit will be dulcet sweet, indeed.

For this is to be baseball's biggest moment. It is to be the official opening of the major league season when the sixteen ball clubs meet on terms of equality for the first and last time and, somehow, the virus engendered by the parades, the bands, the flag raisings and presentations gets under your skin—and stays there until October. It is an experience that is age-old in years but ever new to the eye of the beholder.

It is for the latter reason that 200,000 or more Americans stand ready to rally around the turnstiles at the parks in eight major league cities. Everything, in fact, is in readiness for the great premiere of a great season and all that baseball asks is the boon of favorable weather.

Unfortunately, it doesn't figure to get this. The latest available forecast declared for generally unsettled conditions, which reminds me of the fellow whose family settled in Des Moines—but not with everybody. It is a season that promises to run the gamut of dramatic possibilities for which baseball is celebrated. There is, for example, the promised four-way Vendetta in the National league among the Giants, Cubs, Pirates and Cardinals, with the question of Hornsby's added value to the Cubs looming in the equation. Chicago, therefore, should go for this Cub-Pirate meeting today in a body.

Another question centers around Ruth and his ability to carry forward his pace of recent seasons. Will Ruth collapse and the Yankees with him? Can the Cardinals come back to win another pennant after the veneering they took from the Yankees last fall?

Are the Athletics about to fold up with their greatest chance before them and, if so, will the Browns come on from third place to make the contention?

COOL, RAINY WEATHER IS FORECAST

NEW YORK, April 16.—The dope sheets can now be wrapped up and it will be just as well if Old Man Fan and his youthful companion wrap themselves up comfortably, too.

The prospect is there will be as many chills as there are thrills when the sixteen major league baseball clubs swing into action today for the grand and gala opening of the 1929 pennant festivities.

If the weather does not deal too harshly with the ceremonials, approximately 230,000 spectators probably will turn out, not only to see the flag raising, the parades and notables, but to determine for themselves how close the experts have come to the facts in picking the New York Yankees to win the American League race in a romp once more or the New York Giants and Cubs to set the hottest pace in the National League.

The team dodged a lot of bad weather by putting off the 1929 start a week but not all of it. The prospect is for cool and probably rainy conditions along the entire eastern half of the big league battlefield today. With only slightly more favorable reports from the western trenches, it seems that six of the eight opening games are threatened by poor weather.

The biggest crowds of the day, close to 50,000 each, are expected to witness two of the outstanding openers—one in the east featuring Babe Ruth and the world's champion Yankees in conflict with the Boston Red Sox at the Yankee Stadium, and the other in the west handlining the first appearance of Rogers Hornsby with the Chicago Cubs as they start the campaign.

Here are the weather prospects for big league openers today and probable attendance:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Detroit at Cleveland, partly cloudy and warmer, 25,000.
Boston at New York, cool and cloudy, 50,000.
Philadelphia at Washington, cloudy, 25,000.
Chicago at St. Louis, cloudy and warmer, 15,000.
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Brooklyn at Boston, probable showers, 19,000.
New York at Philadelphia, probable showers, 21,000.
Pittsburgh at Chicago, chilly and clear, 50,000.
St. Louis at Cincinnati, clear and warmer, 32,000.

Drake Relays May Bring New World's Mark For Century Run

Pick of College Dash Men in Competition, Including Speedy Claude Bracey of Rice Institute.

DES MOINES.—A new world's record for the 100 yard dash may be hung up on the cinder path of Drake university here April 26 and 27 when track and field luminaries gather for the twentieth annual Drake relays.

Prospects of a new mark for the sprint grew stronger with the definite announcement that Claude Bracey, sensational Rice Institute dash man, would be here to compete in the games. At the Southern Methodist university relays at Dallas on March 30, Bracey clipped a tenth of a second off the world record of 9.5-10 for the hundred yard route.

Unofficial Time.
Bracey's time in the century is not official, because he was aided by a wind at his back. But on several occasions last year he turned the distance in record time, and with his showing at the Texas meet it is considered probable he may officially lower his mark when he runs here in the Drake contest.

There will be plenty of competition for the southwestern flash in the century dash. The pick of the college dash men in America have signed up for competition in the Drake relays. Lined up against Bracey when the gun cracks will be George Simpson of Ohio State; Jack Elder of Notre Dame; Jud Timm of Illinois; Charley Root of the University of Chicago; Loren Pape of Iowa; Phil Larson of Wisconsin; Eddie Toland, Michigan track dash entry; Meier of Iowa State and Daniels of Texas.

This aggregation is expected to do something terrible to existing conference marks, even if they don't attack world records. Elder has the distinction of being the only man ever clocked faster than Percy Williams, Canada's great sprinter who copied two dash victories at last summer's Olympic games.

Not Spectacular.
The flying Irishman bested Williams in the 60-yard dash at a New York indoor meet this winter. When he came out to the Illinois indoor relays and was knocked off by Simpson of Ohio State in the 75-yard dash. At the same meet, Jud Timm equaled the Big Ten record for the 60-yard dash and Charley Root annexed the 300-yard dash.

The boys who toss the 16-pound shot around are expected to have a merry time at the Drake relays, too. Although it cannot be called spectacular by any stretch of the imagination, the shot put this year is expected to develop the keenest rivalry on record.

In it will be White, of Kansas State Teachers college at Pittsburg, who broke the Drake record last year with a heave of 48 feet 9 inches. Walsh of Notre Dame, who made 46 feet at the Notre Dame invitation meet; Weaver of Chicago; Behr of Wisconsin, winner of the Big Ten meet; and Lyon of Kansas Aggies are also expected to be in the put.

Entries for the relays continue to come in thick and fast, according to Ossie Solem, director of the carnival.

New nominations include Western State Normal, of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Albion college, Albion, Mich.; Ohio State; Illinois; University of Chicago; University of Wisconsin; Rice Institute; University of Texas, and the University of Detroit.

Singles competition in the Liberty duckpin tournament was launched last night when 10 contenders out of an entry list of approximately 30 toppled the timber for good marks.

Scotty Alcock led the first nights onslaught with a mark of 523. Johnny Green being second with 509.

Remainder of the singles entries will bowl tonight. The doubles will follow.

Millrose Star Is Favorite In Boston Run

Michelson Picked to Win Over Veteran De Mar.

BOSTON, April 16.—Boston's annual re-enactment of the great feat of Phileas Fogg, who ran 26 miles 285 yards to Athens with the news of the victory of Marathon, will be the Boston Athletic Association marathon from Hopkinton to Boston on April 19, Patriot's Day.

But unlike the Greek messenger who ran with his thoughts for company, a great and colorful field has been entered in the Unicorn event, which carries with it a National A. A. U. title.

Albert "Whitey" Michelson, of Portchester, N. Y., wearing the colors of the Millrose A. A. of New York, has been installed as the favorite. Although Michelson began competing in the B. A. A. race long ago, he has never won it.

This distinction of winning oftener than anyone else belongs to Clarence De Mar, veteran Melrose legionnaire. Despite his 47 years of age De Mar still is in perfect shape and many followers of the "hill-and-dale" sport were convinced that the veteran plodder will again be returned a victor.

De Mar Training.
De Mar, who holds the record of 2 hours 37 minutes and 53 seconds for the course from Hopkinton to Boston, has been training for some time for the race. It is known that he runs as much as a hundred miles per week during his training period.

The reason that Michelson was quoted as favorite over De Mar was because of the showing of both runners in the last Pawtucket to Woonsocket and return marathon in Rhode Island, in which the Portchester plodder won, while De Mar finished fifth. However, Michelson's time for the full distance was 2 hours 53 minutes 10 seconds.

Michelson, in contrast to his usual custom, has been very confident of victory and has said so.

"I'm working on a new scheme of things this year," said Michelson. "I've flopped in the B. A. A. race often enough. I am going to win it this year, at least that is my intention. I will, too, if I get the break."

"Whitey" said that his previous difficulty was that he had trained too much, being stale when the day of the race arrived.

"Running a lot as Clarence De Mar does is fine for Clarence. But not for me this year. I went light on my training and will save my running for the day of the race."

Among the many entries received for the race were those of two other well known Millrose athletes—Maxey Lamp and Johnny Gravin. Lamp battled Michelson for more than 200 yards in the Pawtucket marathon and lost by a matter of three seconds.

LUCAS TO START FOR HENDRICKS

CINCINNATI, O., April 16.—While the fans kept one eye peeled cloud wards at the "cool and cloudy" weather, and gazed forlornly at the "standing room only" signs tacked to Queen City's professional ball park today, the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals prepared to start the opening game of the baseball season here.

BETHANY, W. Va., April 16.—Bethany college is represented in baseball this spring by a team playing on an informal basis. The team is student-coached and student-managed, which is a decidedly different policy from any in effect in any college in this section. The team stepped off on the right foot last week by noosing out Fairmont Teachers' college and is now preparing faithfully for a pair of games with West Virginia university Friday and Saturday of this week at Morgantown, W. Va.

Dale Fiers, West Palm Beach, Fla., and Otis Cochran, Pittsburgh, Pa., the only two remaining letter men from the last Bethany college baseball team of 1926, are taking charge of things through the aid of Prof. Gordon S. Bennett, faculty advisor. Cochran is captain of the team, while Fiers is serving in the capacity of coach. Arthur W. Rush, Hanoverton, O., is business manager of the club, while Forrest Pruitt, Pittsburgh, Pa., is manager. Fiers, Cochran and Rush are likewise seniors in the college and probably best able to handle the situation through their experience. All three have played considerable independent baseball in Florida, Ohio and Pennsylvania for a number of years.

The Bisons have been lining up with Roy Price, Shelby, O., at first base; Manheim Seidel, Brooklyn, N. Y., at second; Captain Otis Cochran, Pittsburgh, Pa., shortstop, and Malcolm Rush, Hanoverton, O., at third base. Coach Fiers, West Palm Beach, Fla.; Carl Benton, Worthington, Pa.; Arthur Rush, Hanoverton, O., and James Imel, Cleveland Heights, O., have been performing the outfield positions. Thomas Carson, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Imel handle the catching burden with Robert Roe, Warwood, W. Va., and Kenneth Baker, Warwood, W. Va., Bison basketball leader last winter, broke into the lineup against Fairmont last week and his two hits added materially in the Bison victory. The chances are that Baker will be fighting a merry battle for an infield position providing his good work continues throughout the week's practice sessions.

WILLIAMS SETS CANADIAN MARK

MONTREAL, Que., April 16.—Percy Williams, Canadian sprinter in the last Olympics, won the fifty-yard dash at the Montreal A. A. A. meet here last night in 0.05 1-5, setting a new Canadian indoor record and tying the best recorded time for the event. J. G. Loomis ran the distance in the same time thirteen years ago in St. Louis.

Miss Myrtle Cooke's time of 0.06 in the fifty-yard dash set new indoor record for women.

Edwards Stops Kid Ruff By Technical Knockout

Cantonian's Second Tosses in Towel After Second Knockdown; Rodgers Fails to Appear; Foutts Files Complaint With Boyle.

Freddy Edwards, Chester welterweight, added to his string of consecutive fistic conquests last night at the Valley A. C., Wellsville, when he stopped Kid Ruff, Canton, in the fourth round of a scheduled six. Edwards floored Ruff twice, with a right to the jaw on each occasion, and the Cantonian's towel fluttered into the rosin to end it.

The Edwards-Ruff battle took limelight honors in last night's glove revue as a result of the fact that there was no main event.

Jackie Rodgers, colored bantamweight of Pittsburgh, failed to show for his eight rounder with Young Irish, Akron. Irish and Rodgers were substituting for Corbett and Har graves, both of whom sustained injuries in recent fights which prevented their appearance.

The substitute match, which had all the earmarks of the best battle of the current campaign, was cooked up Saturday night but failed to come to a boil, although it did leave Matchmaker Ray Foutts in an awful stew.

Rodgers Saturday night vowed solemnly he'd fight Irish, which places the value of such vows, at the present rate of exchange, at about a dime a dozen.

Last night at 6:30 o'clock, two hours before the fights were to go on, George Peattie, who manages Rodgers, called Foutts by telephone to notify the latter that scrap was off. He could not prevail upon Rodgers with any plea to fulfill his obligation.

So, at the close of the fisticuffs, Foutts took advantage of the late closing hours at the Western Union to ship out a night letter to Harvey Boyle, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania state boxing commissioner.

May Interview Commissioner.
He laid the facts in dot and dash before Boyle and, if necessary, will make a personal visit to the commissioner this afternoon.

Boyle and the commission in general have jurisdiction over boxing in Pennsylvania but whether they can exercise their powers over Pennsylvania boxers fighting in Ohio is something else.

However, whatever is done, if anything, won't compensate for the effect of Rodgers' misdeeds last night. The fact remains though, that boxing clubs such as those which exist in East Liverpool and Wellsville are the means of providing additional work for Pittsburgh district boxers, in return for which the clubs should merit some consideration in the way of protection from acts such as the Rodgers case.

However, the old reliable Freddy Edwards was on the job and all steam up with a wallop in either mitt.

He found Ruff rather troublesome to solve in the first couple of rounds but ultimately worked out the solution by tagging the Cantonian on the frontispiece with violence and accuracy.

Ruff took the first round without difficulty and had an edge in the second. He was shifty, aggressive and on foot (5).

AT PITTSBURGH—Ike McFowler, Johnstown, Pa. Negro, won from Jack De Mave, Caldwell, N. J. heavyweight, on foot (5).

Forbidden Door

Story of Adventurous Youth, Mystery, Fortune and a Girl.

By Herman Landon

She had removed her coat and hat and stood before him in a simple frock of blue serge. Raindrops were still glistening in her hair, but her face testified to the recent use of a powder-puff. John felt rather ashamed of himself for his suspicions as he sat down and watched her drink the tea and eat the sandwiches. She had a pretty face framed by short brown curls. Her eyes of hazel gazed at him in a direct, friendly way. She looked a little more mature than when he saw her in the car. Then he had estimated her age at barely 20. Now he began to wonder. Twenty-two—23? Two or three years made a difference when one was young.

"You make the most wonderful tea," she told him. "You brighten. Glad you like it. What might your name be, miss?"

"Viola Lane. I live in New York and I am on my way to visit my aunt in Intervale."

"Viola Lane, eh? Nice name. It fits you, too. Mine's John Breck. You can call me John. That's what most folks used to call me. Lately I ain't seen many people."

With a sigh of satisfaction she pushed her chair away from the table, turned to the fire, and lighted a cigarette. John had never seen a woman smoke a cigarette before, and he was not quite sure that he approved. Yet she did it so daintily and naturally that he could not find fault.

"You can turn in whenever you feel like it," he told her. "I fixed up one of the upstairs rooms while the tea water was boiling."

"You mean I can stay here for the night?"

"Why, miss, I wouldn't send a dog out in this kind of storm."

"You're awfully kind, John." She gave him a grateful smile. "Late, isn't it?" with a glance at her wrist-watch.

"But I don't feel tired now. I'd rather talk with you. But—doubtful—maybe you are sleepy."

"Not a bit. Fact of the matter is, I didn't mean to go to bed tonight, anyhow. I'm going to stick right in this chair."

"Why on earth do you want to sit up all night?"

"Oh, because," said John mysteriously. "Miss Lane's eyes were fixed on the floor. She smiled faintly. 'Maybe I can guess. You expect him to come back—don't you?'"

"Him—who?" John's mouth dangled open.

The girl was still looking down at the floor. "He wears a narrower shoe than you do, although the length is about the same."

John choked on a whiff of tobacco smoke. He traced the girl's gaze and saw that she was looking down at the footprints on the floor, now reduced to a few clots of dried mud. He gave her a startled glance.

"Oh, the sneezicks!" His face closed up. "Say, miss, you're a smart one! I wouldn't have thought it of you, no-sirree."

"Then I must be cleverer than I look." She gave a pleased laugh. "What became of him?"

"Wish I knew," said John grimly. "Say, miss, are you one of those lady detectives?"

"Mercy! Do I look like one?"

"No, you don't," said John emphatically, though he had no clear idea what a lady detective should look like. "I don't see how you can tell so much from a few specks of mud."

"Oh, but it's awfully simple, John. I know those mud prints weren't left by you because I noticed how carefully you wiped your feet on the door mat. And then, from the look you gave me when you saw me in the car, I gathered two things. One was that something troublesome had happened. The other, that you were not accustomed to receiving visitors in this place. It wasn't very hard to put two and two together after that."

John's admiration rose. At the same time he felt a little uneasy. All his life he had felt that way toward women who looked simpler than they really were.

"You're the observest girl I ever did see," he declared.

The girl went down on her knees and subjected the dried mud tracings to a closer inspection, following the tracks to where they disappeared in the rug.

"I can tell you another thing," she announced. "The mysterious personage is a cripple."

"Cripple, eh?" John looked doubtful. "For a cripple he moved terribly fast."

"Well, maybe not a cripple exactly, although he comes down much harder on one foot than the other. Maybe he is only limping from a recent injury."

John eyed her narrowly. "What gets me," he remarked, "is how a girl as smart as you are could lose her way as badly as you did tonight."

Miss Lane rose. Their eyes tangled in a long glance. There was faint mockery in the girl's. "Not suspicious, are you, John?"

"None—just wondering."

She laughed, then started to move about the room with a swinging stride, stopping now and then to examine some object of interest. John's eyes followed her. She moved with a fresh, easy grace. She made him think of his daughter, now sleeping under the hemlocks in the cemetery at Dixville.

"Well," she stretched herself luxuriously—"since I had to get lost, I'm glad I came to Valhalla Notch."

"Uh-huh. You mighta fared worse," John gave her another long, narrow glance. "Mind telling me, Miss Lane, how you knew this was Valhalla Notch?"

"Why—she faltered. Her face was averted, but he saw that her slight shoulders shook a little. "Didn't you tell me?"

"I'm sure I didn't."

"But you must have. How else would I have known?" She dismissed the subject lightly. "Who is that?" pointing to the old portrait of Old Winthrop.

John had suddenly grown uncommunicative. "Somebody who lived here once."

She studied the picture. "Curious face! Stern lips and dreamy eyes. Interesting combination. I have a feeling I've seen it before. But it was a much younger face that I saw."

"Yeah?"

"Yes, much younger. The name of the young man was—let me see now—Hannan Martenet."

The Iron Door.

John almost dropped his pipe. "You know Hannan Martenet?"

"Not exactly. I've only met him once or twice."

"Where did you see him?"

"Why, in New York, a week or two ago. It was just a casual sort of meeting."

Her hazel eyes twinkled slyly at the portrait. "He's a casual sort of young man, you see."

John pulled darkly at his pipe. "I've heard Hannan was back in America. That's his granddaddy up there. They say he takes after him a lot."

"Yes," with a thoughtful nod. "I am sure he does. He has the same forehead, nose and eyes. But the mouth is different, not so tight and grim. Hannan Martenet has a nice mouth."

John smoked stolidly. He wondered just how "casual" her meeting with young Martenet had been.

"But he is clever—cleverer than you would think from looking at him," Miss Lane went on. "Ever so many young men with nice mouths are only fools. Hannan Martenet is different, though. If you don't look out he'll fool you."

She gave a laugh that sounded reminiscently rueful. Suddenly her face sobered. "Have you heard what happened to him?"

"Has anything happened to him?"

"Don't you read the papers, John?"

"About twice a month. It's eight miles to the post-office, and there's no deliveries in these backwoods. What's happened to Hannan?"

"He's disappeared."

John choked on tobacco smoke. "Eh?"

"Disappeared—vanished off the face of the earth."

Her tone was grave and mystified. "It happened the second night he was in New York. Nobody knows what's become of him. Many people think he is dead."

"Dead?" said John in a hollow voice. "You mean—murdered?"

"Maybe. Or else kidnaped. There's been no trace found of him. He left his hotel late in the evening, shortly after a friend had called on him. At least, it's supposed his caller was a friend. None of the hotel attendants seem able to describe him except to say that he was a short man with a funny face and a large nose."

"Almighty queer," said John after a long pause.

"Yes, it's very strange. Did you ever see Hannan Martenet, John?"
